Elisa Longo Borghini is the leading Italian road cyclist who joined UCI Women's World Tour team UAE Team ADQ at the start of 2025. She is an all rounder GC rider who can climb, is proficient in the time trial, and has a penchant for getting in a breakaway.

Elisa boasts an impressive palmarès with multiple podiums in her career. Some of her most significant victories include being the first Italian to win the Tour of Flanders in 2015 (which she won again nine years later in 2024), winning two bronze medals at the Olympics (Rio and Tokyo), winning Paris Roubaix Femmes in 2022 and most notably claiming the Maglia Rosa by winning the Giro d'Italia Women in 2024, and retaining the prestigious accolade in 2025.

These are all alongside multiple national titles and WorldTour victories and podiums. The results speak for themselves, with Elisa finishing on the podium of Tour De France Femmes avec Zwift alongside Demi Vollering and Kasia Niewiadoma-Phinney.

Elisa lives and trains in Italy where she grew up and is very family-orientated. She loves nothing more than training around the lakes and mountains near to home. Her mother was a cross country skier and her brother, Paolo, also competed professionally as a cyclist, so sports performance is in her blood.

Her best advice, 'Remember who you are and where you come from' is from her parents, and ensures that she is one of the most grounded riders in the peloton.
