Tiffany has been a key part of team victories in some of the most iconic races, and is also a valuable mentor to the younger generation of riders coming through. She has also had the honour of riding for her country, Australia, on multiple occasions. In 2018, Tiffany was Road Captain at a home Commonwealth Games, leading the team to success with team mate Chloe Hosking winning gold. In 2021, after a brilliant early season she received the greatest reward of Olympic selection for Tokyo.

2022 was a strong season on the road as part of the inaugural Tour de France Femmes avec Zwift, where the team secured a third place in GC for Kasia Niewiadoma, and her gravel racing was also thriving. 2023 was a brilliant gravel season where she won SEVEN, The Gralloch, Unbound 100 and FNLD GRVL setting herself up for a dazzling 2024 with more victories to her name.

Tiffany is passionate about the gravel scene, to the point of founding her own gravel races alongside her partner Valterri Bottas who is also a keen cyclist. They have teamed up with the organisers of SBT GRVL to create premium events in Lahti, Finland (FNLD GRVL) and also Tiffany's home town of Adelaide, Australia (RADL GRVL).

Not only does Tiffany ride bikes, she’s also an aspiring designer.
